E.U. Open House at the Embassy of Slovenia

The Delegation of the European Union to the United States and the embassies of the 28 E.U. member states opened their doors last Saturday to Washington public during the eighth Annual E.U. Embassies' Open House Day. This annual event is a highlight of the Washington May calendar and is celebrated during the European Month of Culture. This year was special due to the fact that on May 1 Slovenia marked the 10th anniversary of joining the European Union. Beside Slovenia, also welcomed in 2004 were Cyprus, the Czech Republic, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Malta, Poland and Slovakia.

More than 4000 people visited the Slovenian embassy on Saturday, May 10, 2014, between 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The guests had an opportunity to learn about the best Slovenian tourist attractions, taste Slovenian culinary specialties such as "potica" (walnut-roll cake), baked by Rocky Mountain Potica from Colorado and Sophie's Catering from Ohio; "jabolčni zavitek" (apple strudel), Carniolian sausage by Ažman's from Cleveland, and pumpkin seed oil Kocbek by the Tri-Wines company from New York. Making of the apple strudel and potica was demonstrated by Bajda sisters: Rosie Antilla, Albina Medved, and Nadi Bajda, who came to Washington from Minnesota and used the recipes of their other sister Paula Mavec.

The guests could also taste Slovenian wine of producer Edi Simčič from Goriška Brda, furnished by Smucker's Farm of 14th and V streets in Washington, admire an exhibition of paintings by the 94-year-old Slovenian from Virginia, Minnesota, Al Zaverl, and listen to traditional music performed on the accordion by Alex Gergar from Bethlehem, PA, Kara Maruszak, from Cleveland, OH; John Stark, from Aurora, MN; and Frank Vidergar, from Silver Spring, MD.

The visitors could also learn about Emona, the Roman 2000-year-old city, present-day capital of Slovenia, Ljubljana, and could pose for a picture with a Roman soldier, an inhabitant of old Emona. The interesting features of Ljubljana were presented by Tourism Ljubljana and their representatives Špela Paternošter and Aleš Goričan. The Lectar Inn from Radovljica demonstrated throughout the day how gingerbread hearts are made, and its owner, Jože Andrejaš, played harmonica for

Next to admiring traditional and authentic Slovenian costumes, the visitors could also view original household items, artwork and implements displayed on the embassy premises by the SNPJ Heritage Museum from Pittsburgh, PA. Slovenian Union of America SUA Branch 93 from New York and their President Tanya Vajk on this occasion conducted an online class of Slovene, and SUA Branch 108 with President Bernardka Kovačič Fitzsimmons exhibited traditional beehive panels and other traditional items as well as an 85-year-old issue of the U.S. Slovenian magazine Zarja. Also in attendance was National V.P. of the SUA for Culture and Heritage, Mary Lou Deyak Voelk (Branch 23), who came for the occasion from Alabama. Throughout the day, the guests were addressed from time to time by the Ambassador, Dr. Božo Cerar. They also could learn about Slovenian tourist attractions and talk to embassy staff about history, economy, and politics of Slovenia. Also, Ms. Sylvia Onusic, who annually organizes "Taste Slovenia" tours to various regions of Slovenia, presented her tourist program, and Slovenia Travel (Darja Gačnik) from New York, and Roads Less Traveled Tours (Andrew Villone) provided their travel information.

Promotional films on Slovenia attracted a great number of people, many of whom were photographed with the embassy staff in national costume. The event wouldn't have been as successful if it hadn't been for the dedication of Slovenian diplomats with their spouses, local staff, the interns and numerous volunteers: Taylor and Marian

Boris Pahor Presented at the Library of Congress

On May 13, The Library of Congress hosted a lecture about one of the most influential contemporary Slovenian writers, Boris Pahor, and his book Necropolis. The event was part of the European Month of Culture, which was organized by the E.U. embassies in Washington. The centenarian Nobel Prize nominee, holocaust survivor, and writer of a multitude of books (translated into many languages), was presented to the interested public in a lecture by Luka Zibelnik.

After the talk, which mainly dealt with his most known work, Necropolis, the listeners were able to talk to the writer himself via Skype. The author surprised them with his clarity and positive attitude, and answered all of their questions. Necropolis is a relatively hidden jewel of literature, which describes Pahor's inner thoughts and memories while he is visiting Natzweiler-Struthof, one of the concentration camps in which he was imprisoned during WWII. Fragmentation and nonlinear story makes the novel a completely different experience for the reader, who understands the crematorium world a lot better through masterfully used metaphorical language than would be possible through the linear and diary-like narrative.

The next day, a documentary about Boris Pahor, produced by RTV Koper-Capodistria, titled The Stubborn Memory (Trmasti spomin) was screened at the Slovenian embassy. The documentary, which received an Erasmus EuroMedia award and a medal of excellence in 2010, showcases the key moments that marked the author's life, and present the core of his literary creation. The film was made as a part of the project "Sons of Two Nations - Great Men of Slovenia", which presents the lives of people who have made an impact on the multicultural area between Italy and Slovenia. The Stubborn Memory was directed by Tomaž Burlin, who was also the co-author and co-scriptwriter, together with Neva Zajc.

"The Stubborn Memory" has been previously presented at the seventh annual international film series Bridges to the World, organized by the World Artists Experiences. The series ran for five weeks from the first week of February through the second week of March at five venues throughout the state of Maryland and in Reading, Pennsylvania. Each film was introduced, screened, and followed by a discussion.

The event took place at the European Division conference room in Thomas Jefferson Building.

Slovenian Language Class at the Embassy

In the evening of May 13, Luka Zibelnik, instructor in Slovenian language and culture at Cleveland State University, and his wife and assistant Erika Zibelnik held a »survival« Slovenian language class at the Embassy of Slovenia in Washington. The lecture was well attended, and the listeners learned several phrases that they could use in both informal and formal situations when meeting a Slovenian speaker.

Zibelnik also presented the new online classes, which were offered last year through Cleveland State University. The classes were made for people who cannot attend regular classes due to time or space restrictions. An internet-based series of classes, which can be accessed from anywhere in the U.S., has therefore been constructed. In the last two semesters, the class had more than 50 new students, who learned the basics of the language. More information on classes and how to enroll at l.zibelnik@csuohio.edu.

Enroll in Slovenian online classes 101 or 201 in the Fall

Need to take a language course for your degree? Do you want the possibility of learning at your own pace, and in any location you choose? If you want more freedom and flexibility in your courses then try Slovenian Language online!

This course has been created to be accessible from any location, and on any device (computer, cell phone, tablet, iPad, etc.). It gives you the opportunity to rewind and have the entire course in the palm of your hand! Weekly assignments give you the flexibility of choosing when to log-in, and when to do your homework.

Classes are offered at Cleveland State University under the title SLN 101 or SLN 201. Take the course at home, at school, work, outside, or any other location that allows you internet access! Classes are offered for credit points (3CP) or continuing education ($400). People from all around the U.S. can enroll in these classes, so enroll quickly. For more proficient speakers or students who finished the SLN 101 and 102, the SLN 201 will be offered as well.

Also, there are three in-class courses offered at Lakeland Community College and the CSU.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Consular Hours in New York City

The consular officer from the Embassy of the Republic of Slovenia in Washington, DC, will hold consular hours and provide consular services (authentications, certifications, passport applications, etc.) in New York City on Friday, May 23, at the premises of the Permanent Mission of the Republic of Slovenia to the United Nations, located at 630 Third Avenue (20th floor), New York, NY. 10017 (Please note the new address!).

To schedule an appointment, please, fill out the form available at the embassy's website and send it to the Embassy of Slovenia at vwa@gov.si by May 21, 2014, to allow the embassy enough time to verify your data.

The embassy will suggest the time of your appointment and give you further information on the documentation you need to bring along. You may also visit the embassy website <http://washington.embassy.si/> (Consular Affairs, Visas) for documents required for most consular services. Please note that the consular fee must be paid with a money order made out to "Embassy of Slovenia". Cash, personal checks or credit cards will not be accepted. Due to security reasons, prior appointment is needed to enter the premises of the Mission.

James (Jim) Oberstar

On Saturday, May 3, 2014, former Congressman James L. Oberstar died at his home in Potomac, Maryland. As a U.S. Congressman, he represented the people of the 8th District of Minnesota for 36 years until 2010. He was a Democrat and the longest-serving member of Congress in Minnesota's history. Slovenia owes a great deal to the late congressman. Since Slovenia's decision for independence in 1991, he was its great advocate and supporter, who helped present the "Slovenian story" to the U.S. Administration and, later, promoted American recognition of Slovenian sovereignty and independence, and the establishment of diplomatic relations between the two countries. His contacts, his advice and readiness to help were priceless.

He supported Slovenian endeavors to join NATO, not just on a declaratory level, but with concrete steps, and thus to become a member of the transatlantic family and be responsible for its own security. He was always, without exception, ready to listen and offer advice and information when it came to visits and conversations of various Slovenian representatives with interlocutors in U.S. Congress and Administration.

Special recognition goes to Congressman Oberstar for his active support of the International Trust Fund for Demining. He was actively engaged in fundraising and earmarking assets for the Trust fund and has never lost an occasion to show his support for the cause of mine clearance and assistance to land-mine victims. For all these reasons, Slovenia will always be in his debt, but most of all, we highly appreciate how proud he was of his Slovenian heritage. Son of a Slovenian mother, he never lost an opportunity to tell any American -- or anyone else -- about Slovenia, its history, its language, its culture. His contribution to the preservation of Slovenian heritage in the U.S. and to the relations between the two countries will always be cherished.

On behalf of the Slovenian Government, the Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs, Mr. Karl Erjavec, expressed his condolences to the Congressman's wife and family and the Ambassador, Dr. Cerar, attended his funeral.
